According to the clients clinical assessments they met the criteria to be admitted to the program with diagnoses and behaviors including but not limited to Oppositional Defiant Disorder, Substance Abuse Disorder, verbal/physical aggression, and property damage. However 1-2 days after the clients were admitted to the facility approximately 10 of the 21 clients were sent to the hospital for the same types of behaviors they had been admitted for, while the other clients were sent to the hospital 3-6 days after admission. Staff interviews confirmed the facility could not manage their crisis behaviors due to not implementing the appropriate interventions and not having additional staff in place to provide more intensive supervision (e.g. 1:1), treatment. In addition staff acknowledged that clients who posed immediate threats to themselves or others were sent to the hospital because they were unable to manage the behaviors. When clients were sent to the hospital, the facility did not send staff to accompany the clients, did not provide pertinent information about their diagnoses, history, or behaviors, and did not follow up with the hospital	V 269

FC #1's LG came to the facility and met with the DR same day he was sent out however after she arrived he calmed down. The nurse she relieved sent client #1 out because "she was not dealing with him with no back up additional staff and clients escalating behaviors." She (RN) suggested calling grandma/LG when he continued to verbally act out "amped up" but the nurse got approval to send client #1 out to the hospital. - Clients were not given IM medications at the facility. Normally clients who were sent out to the ED spoke to the psychiatrist to assess acute needs and the need for an increased level of care. She (RN) would call the LG, EMS and get LG to consent to transport over the phone, however sometimes could not get in touch with the LG. At the same time she would call 911 so they would not have to wait the LG had given the consent. Clients were able to come back to the facility, but the on call doctor rarely gave consent for them to return because they were not familiar with the clients and the night shift had limited resources and staff to support client's behaviors. Before anyone got hurt client's were sent out to the hospital "it's a safety concern." - The medications the facility administered did not work. Saphris was sublingual and took 1-2 hours to work, po (orally) medications had no results, no injections were given at all and there was no seclusion room. - The facility would send all client belongings and medications with the client when they were sent out, "techs" (technicians) gathered those items together. The clients always rode alone with EMS. Staff did not accompany the clients to the hospital or met the legal guardians at the hospital	V 271

Unaware if medications or belongings were sent. Not always a crisis issue, per medic staffing was the major issue. The hospital SW had to determine who the clients LG was to discuss patient needs and at times the LG either arrived hours or days later or never arrived. They often had to rely on the minor patients to give them history and pertinent information including who their legal guardian was, which at times was impossible and unless the patients medications were documented in the system they had no idea what they were being administered because the facility did not send the medication information.
